Emperor's New Clothes and Amadeus Sensational Season

The Lambuth Theatre program presented two plays in the spring of 1994. The Emperor's New Clothes and Amadeus. The Emperor's New Clothes was based on the favorite children's tale of an Emperor's quest to fulfill his incredible ego and the commoners who trick him. This play was heavily attended by children in the community, and peanut butter sandwiches were served during the intermission. Lead roles were held by Daniel Eanes, Chet Dixon, Cary Vaughn, Jamil Al-Chokhachi, and Jeni Stephens.

On April 7-9, 1994, the Lambuth Theatre presented Amadeus to the Lambuth community. This play by Peter Shafer is loosely biographical of the late Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart, the great composer and musician. This elaborate production featured the talents of Terry Wells (Antonio Salieri), a professional actor from New York, as well as many Lambuth students: Jamil Al-Chokhachi (Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart), Leah Kreutzer (Constanze Weber), David Sergeant (Joseph II), Gary Drum (Count Van Strack), Matt Winstead (Count Von Swieten), Chet Dixon and Cary Vaughn (The Venticelli), Steven Johnson (A Major Domo), Joey Hassell (Salieri's Valet), Robin Cherry (Salieri's Cook), Casey Griffin (Kappelmeister Bonno), Aaron Lancaster (Theresa Salieri), Jodi Brown (Katherina Cavalieri), Steven Johnson (Priest), and Casey Griffin, Steven Johnson, Aaron Lancaster, Leah Krutzer, Chet Dixon, Cary Vaughn, Robin Cherry, and Joey Hassell (Citizens of Vienna).

All Sing

Outstanding Renditions

Where else can you find the Brady Bunch family, beautiful cowgirls, "serious" steppin', and southern gentlemen all in the same place at the same time, but during the Greek All-Sing competition held on March 20, 1994. This long standing effort to raise money for each Greek organization's philanthropy has continued to generate fun and draw talent from Lambuth's Greek system for years.

The gentlemen of Kappa Alpha began the afternoon's performance with a tribute to Kappa Alpha Order, including familiar Elvis songs with slightly adapted lyrics such as, "Old K.A.," and "Nothing but a Gentleman." Next, the women of Alpha Omicron Pi entertained the crowd as they performed well-known country songs and line dances with boot scooting rhythms. Phi Mu Fraternity for Women then sparked some humor in the program with their personal representation of a few television show themes from the 60's and 70's. Finally, the afternoon's performance ended with the captivating stomping and chanting of the "Too Sexy" ladies from Alpha Kappa Alpha.

The afternoon's festivities were officiated by the Master of Ceremonies, Don Roe, the familiar Lambuth basketball announcer and Lambuth alumnus. The distinguished panel of judges included Brooks Clayton, Linda Clayton, Vickie Dennison, Bobby Newton, and Luanne Powell.

Although the judging was done quite differently from that of previous years, awards were given to each group. Kappa Alpha received "Most Spirit and Best Theme," Alpha Kappa Alpha received "Most Original," Alpha Omicron Pi received "Best Choreography," and Phi Mu received first place for "Best Overall Performance."

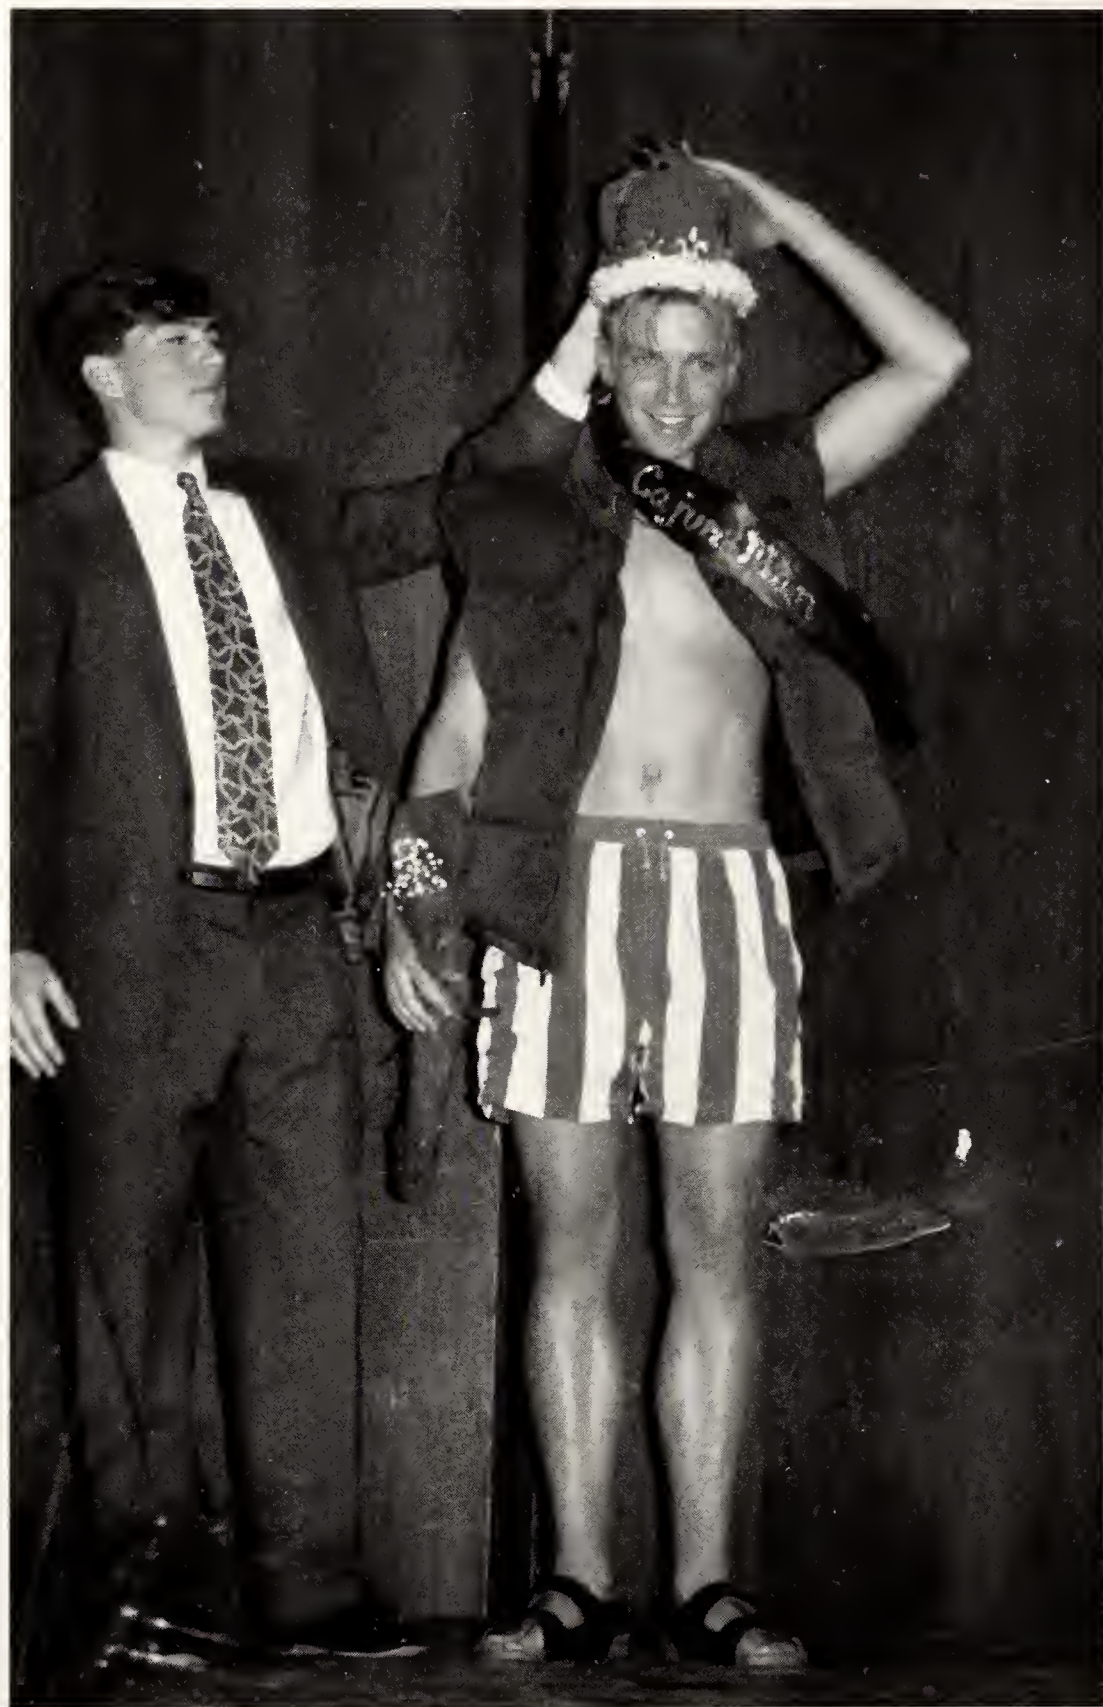

Ragin Cajun

The highlight of the Student Activities Committee's Cajun Week was the first annual Cajun Man contest, held on March eighteenth. Sponsored by the ladies of Alpha Omicron Pi sorority in an effort to raise money for the Diamond Jubilee Scholarship Fund, the Cajun Man contest was a beauty pageant of a different sort. Vying for the prestigious title of Cajun Man were twelve representatives from various sports teams and campus fraternities. These young men were judged in four categories: Sunday dress, casual wear, swimsuit, and talent.

Hosted by Emcee Eva Cook the evening was a parade of talent. Erin Harper and Jeanette Lippy provided the intermission entertainment with their rendition of a popular Indigo Girls' tune. Contestants Bart Payne and Timmy Ostrom — dressed in drag — also sang an Indigo Girls' hit. Paul McKnight and Brent Harris pepped up the crowd with their tribute to Lambuth's cheerleaders; David Boyd and Chris Miller added culture to the evening with a ballet; and, throughout the evening, Rob Sikes displayed his ability to creatively accessorise.

When the judges reached their difficult decision, Bart Payne was given the title of the 1994 Cajun Man and received one-hundred dollars. Timmy Ostrom was named as first runner-up and given seventy-five dollars, and David Boyd was declared second runner-up and received fifty dollars.

Bottom Left: Mr. Greck 1994, Adam Glonski, crowns the reigning Cajun Man 1995, Bart Payne. Barton won overall in the casual wear, swim wear, Sunday dress, and talent competitions.

Top: Bart Payne and Timmy Ostrum performed their rendition of everyone's favorite duo, The Indigo Girls. The audience demanded an encore of these two pretty ladies — men — whatever.

Bottom Center: Rob Sikes was very versatile in his attire. He substituted his favorite pair of overalls for all three individual dress competitions.

Bottom Right: Brent Harris and Paul McKnight attempted to pep up the audience by leading them in cheers for their joint talent competition.

Lambuth University's 146th commencement took place in Carney Commons on May 2, 1994. Delivering the baccalaureate sermon, "When What You Are Looking for Is Looking for You," was Reverend Shirley Lynn, pastor of Fountain Avenue United Methodist Church in Paducah, Kentucky. She has a Bachelor's Degree, summa cum laude, from Memphis State University and a Master of Divinity Degree, magna cum laude, from Chandler School of Theology, Emory University. The commencement speaker was Mr. William H. Morris, Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of Global Associates, Inc., in Memphis, Tennessee. Mr. Morris also serves as Chairman of William Morris and Associates, Inc., an international business consulting firm. He attended the University of Tennessee at Knoxville, where he was a "Special Student," completing junior and senior level courses. Mr. Morris is the former Assistant Secretary of the U.S. Department of Commerce. Both speakers were able to share insights, hopes, and encouragement for the future.

Seniors and guest speakers were presented with high honors and awards at the graduation commencement. The Honorary Doctor of Laws degree, the highest honor given by Lambuth, was received by Mr. Morris. Homecoming Week

Grand Celebration

Lambuth was very fortunate to have an eventful Homecoming 1994 week. With the theme "Lambuth: A Celebration of Generations," Lambuth as a community traveled back in time to the 1960's and 1970's to honor the class of 1969. There were many activities planned throughout the week by a new addition to the Lambuth staff, Rebecca Klatt-Collins, Director of Student Activities and Intramurals, who was able to offer her knowledge and enthusiasm to the week. Melanie Speight, Homecoming Chair of the SGA did a wonderful job organizing and involving all of campus. Many of the activities throughout the week were supported by points which were accumulated for a traveling trophy to be awarded at the Homecoming game. On Monday October 17, SGA sponsored a tie-dye contest, banner contest, sidewalk contest, and a house/dorm decorating contest. The Program was shown as the movie on the green on Tuesday. On Wednesday night an All-Sport Auction was held to raise money for a local charity. Each sport was represented by a contestant which cost anywhere from 65¢ to $16. Students had fun on Thursday making their own Fun Flicks videos. SGA organized a bonfire and pep rally on Friday. Following the pep rally, Lamstock 1994 was held by groups rewriting hit songs of the 60's and 70's. Saturday at the game the Kappa Alpha order was presented with the traveling trophy. To conclude Homecoming 1994 a dance was held in the Quad for all of campus to enjoy.

The Homecoming Week activities concluded with the Homecoming game and its pageantry. The Lambuth community welcomed home numerous alumni and paid tribute to the class of 1969. In addition to the overwhelming victory for the Lambuth Eagle football team, several other activities took place.

During half time, the 1994 Homecoming Court was presented to the crowd. Catherine Dickey of Adamsville, TN, was selected from the freshman class; Michelle Halliday of Clarksville, TN, represented the sophomore class; Stacey Russo of Mobile, AL, was selected from the junior class; Monica Cates of Drummonds, TN, Josie Craig of Huntsville, AL, Angela Spralling of Memphis, TN, and Lori Trew of Cordova, TN, were chosen as the representatives of the senior class. Monica Cates was selected as the Homecoming Queen.

Also during half time, Melanie Speight presented the winners of the Homecoming week contest. Kappa Alpha order received 1st place, Alpha Omicron Pi — 2nd, and Phi Mu Fraternity — 3rd. The performance by the dance team and constant cheering from the cheerleaders completed the Homecoming day festivities. Exceptional Representatives

The 1995 Miss Lambuth Scholarship Pageant was held on Saturday, November 5th, in order to crown a new Miss Lambuth to represent the school in the Miss Tennessee Pageant. Based on the hit Broadway musical Phantom of the Opera, the set design and entertainment of the entire night was a "Masquerade." Co-chairpersons Tom Thum and Laurinda Drown Reed did a wonderful job planning and organizing the pageant. Joey Reed served as Master of Ceremonies. The contestants of Miss Lambuth — Erin Harper, Jennifer Baker, Jeni Stephens, Dawn Doris, Gwen Larrick, Amy Rust, and Trameka Williams — competed in interview, swimsuit, and evening gown competitions. Jamil Al-Chokhachi and Samantha Decker sang award winning songs from Phantom of the Opera including "Music of the Night" and "All I Ask of You." Miss Lambuth 1994 Jill Deloach, performed twice that evening. First she sang a duet "Gospel Medley" with her sister, Abby Deloach. Later in the evening she sang a patriotic medley as her last performance as the reigning Miss Lambuth. Amy Rust was selected by other contestants as Miss Congeniality. The judges recognized Gwen Larrick as having the best talent of the evening. In the personal interview, Jeni Stephens was recognized as the winner. Jeni Stephens was later crowned Miss Lambuth 1995. Jennifer Baker placed first runner-up and Gwen Larrick was named second runner-up.

Winterfest

Holiday Excitement

A week of festive events calmed everyone's anxiety before a hectic week of exams. This time gave students a time to enjoy themselves and the time of celebration. Monday was the traditional "Hanging of the Greens," which beautifully decorated Lambuth's campus. A shining addition to the campus was the Lambuth University Christmas tree, which glowed every night between Sprague Hall and the chapel. The lighting of this stunning tree took place Tuesday night with a number of students, faculty, and staff present to join in on well-known Christmas carols. Wednesday night the Student Government Association sponsored the first annual Winterfest formal. Delicious food and drinks were served. A huge screen and D.J. kept the festivities active late into the night. The opening of "Carnival" premiered Thursday night in the Lambuth Theatre. April Prescott and Lori Taylor, members of SGA, organized the events of Winterfest 1994.

SGA

The Student Government Association is the core of student life at Lambuth. Under the leadership of Lori Trew, SGA is divided up into committees. April Prescott served as chairman of the Student Activities Committee which oversaw various campus-wide events. Josie Craig took charge of having a successful Parents' Weekend. Jennifer Rawls served as chairman of the Food Committee in order to make sure that the students were satisfied with the cafeteria food. Tom Thum and Laurinda Reed, the co-chairmen of the Miss Lambuth Committee, were responsible for making sure the pageant went smoothly and for the beautiful sets designed around the theme "Phantom of the Opera." Set to the theme of "Celebration of Generations," Homecoming Week would not have been possible without the unending preparations of Melanie Speight. SGA clearly serves the needs of Lambuth students in a variety of ways.

Gamma Beta Phi

Gamma Beta Phi is an academic honor society promoting scholarship, service, and character. In order to be inducted into this society, a student must have at least a 3.25 cumulative grade point average and exhibit leadership ability through school service. The three major objectives of the Gamma Beta Phi society are "to recognize and encourage individual excellence in education, to promote the development of leadership ability and character in its members, and to foster, disseminate, and improve education through appropriate service projects." This year Gamma Beta Phi participated in many different service projects such as the Red Cross blood drive and a community-wide Halloween bazaar. Through Gamma Beta Phi, Lambuth students are able to incorporate academics with school service.

Lantern

The Lantern staff has worked diligently this year in order to present to the students the best yearbook possible. It has taken countless hours of hard work and much cooperation from the entire staff to produce the sixty-seventh volume of the Lantern. The staff was under the direction of Senior Jennifer Rawls, editor, and Mr. Mark Walls, faculty advisor. This year's book is a small conglomeration of the past year and its activities as "A New Era" begins.

Above: Freshman Jaime Hubbard concentrates on preparing the faculty section in order to make her deadline. Each section editor is responsible for gathering pictures, drawing layouts, and writing the copy for her section.

Vision

Lambuth's newspaper staff, the Vision, publishes the current events occurring on campus, locally, and nationally. The Vision keeps the students aware of stories and controversies around campus by interviewing students and faculty. Under the direction of Dr. Gary Drum and Dr. Marcia Mittelstadt, the Vision is published twice each semester.

Sophomore Leah Kreutzer finishes her article for the newspaper in the computer lab.

Coffeehouse Papers

The students' literary magazine, the Coffeehouse Papers, publishes the literature and art works of Lambuth students. Such works consist of poems, short stories, essays, and art. The staff chooses the work that they consider to be worthy of publishing. The staff is guided by faculty advisors Dr. Lendon Noe and Dr. Susan Kramer and the co-editors Jennifer Rawls and Melanie Speight.

As a staff member, Junior Blair Geise prepares layouts for the 1995 literary magazine.

The members of the literary staff of the Coffeehouse Papers are as follows: Brian Athow, Melanie Speight, Jennifer Rawls, and Blair Geise.

FCA

The Fellowship of Christian Athletes consists of a group of students joined together to share their common faith in God. FCA meetings range from studying the Bible, listening to a devotional speaker, playing games, having a movie night, or just singing songs in praise of the Lord. They go out into the Jackson community and witness through an outreach program called Youth Town. The FCA reached out to all Lambuth students by sponsoring a concert featuring the Nashville Contemporary Christian singer Steve Wilson and by participating in the nationwide prayer rally called "Meet-you-at-the-Pole" where students gathered at the flag pole and prayed for issues concerning both the country and school. According to Sophomore Melanie Speight, FCA is primarily "just trying to reach out to as many LU students as possible." Under the direction of Chris Miller, FCA provides an excellent way for all students, not just athletes, to gather together and develop a stronger creed in God.

Above Right: Chris Miller, FCA President, shares a devotional with the group. Chris plays an important role in making sure that the activities are both fun and smoothly run.

Kaleidoscope

Kaleidoscope is a selective group of talented Lambuth students who sing and dance at special events throughout the year. Kaleidoscope opened Parents' Weekend with an upbeat performance composed of songs ranging from "42nd Street" to a medley of rock-n-roll songs. Under the direction of Dr. Marcia Mittelstadt, Kaleidoscope practices several times a week in order to perfect both their routines and songs. Although rehearsals take up a lot of time, all of the members seem to agree that it is all well worth the effort. Sophomore Samantha Decker believes that "Kaleidoscope provides us with the opportunity to promote Lambuth University while still having fun." The members also had the new privilege of participating in the school play Carnival. Carrying on a yearly tradition, the members of Kaleidoscope toured throughout West Tennessee and Missouri, and they had a wonderful experience.

Concert Choir

Under the leadership of Dr. Marcia Mittelstadt, the members of the concert choir sing at special convocations throughout the year, perform during the annual Christmas Candlelight, play a Spring Concert, and tour annually during the spring semester. Musical selections range from sacred church music to classical arrangements. One special event that the Lambuth Concert Choir is asked to participate in is an annual concert with the Jackson Symphony. This is one way that Lambuth students are given the opportunity to contribute their talents to the Jackson community.

Above: Freshman Jim Peterson and Seniors Chet Dixon and Will Dougan rehearse their music for Opening Convocation. The Concert Choir practices twice each week in order to perfect their performances.

Above Right: Freshman Mary Churchill and Senior Gwen Larrick practice their soprano parts for the Christmas Candlelight performance. A variety of students participate in the choir, whether it be a first time for a freshman or a tradition for a senior.

Concert Band

Concert Band, directed by Mr. Dick Brown, plays a variety of music from classical to contemporary styles. A variety of selections were played during the fall concert. They ranged from songs from The Lion King to contemporary songs and traditional favorites. The band plays at all of the home football games and pep rallies. This year some of the members played in the school musical Carnival. The band toured West Tennessee, Missouri, and Kentucky playing pieces from the fall concert.

Seniors Marty Anderson and Lori Bryant play their clarinets in the woodwind section of the band during their fall concert.

Jazz Band

Under the leadership of Mr. Dick Brown, the Jazz Band entertains at Lambuth activities and represents a different side of music for the university. They perform several different types of music such as pop and rock in addition to jazz. Just this year, the jazz band played the background music in the play Carnival. They accompany Kaleidoscope during their performances and tour on their own once each year.

BSU

The Black Student Union is a vital part of Lambuth's student life. It was established in 1971 in order to encourage harmony among the students and to develop the black students spiritually and intellectually. The BSU hosts the annual Ebony Ball, the Ebony Man Auction fundraiser, and the Miss BSU Pageant. Advised by Lisa Spivey, the BSU also celebrates Black History Month and has its own gospel choir. The executive officers of the BSU are Stephanie Jones, Antonia Hanson, Tony Brown, Armantha Jones, Kanye Burton, Tina Wilson, and Robert Redmond.

ISA

The International Students Association consists of a new segment of the Lambuth community. Lambuth takes pride in this richness of cultural diversity on campus. It is through these international students that American students can see the university of mankind, and the American students soon discover that they have more in common with the international students than they have differences. Lambuth would truly not be the same without these students. Mrs. Donna Overstreet oversees their affairs, and she makes sure that all have their papers signed and in order. Mrs. Eileen Hinders, the international students' academic advisor, makes sure that all are comfortable in their classes. Dr. Robin Rash sponsors the International Students Club, and he helps these students to get involved with Lambuth activities. Lambuth is fortunate to have such a wonderful group of international students on campus.

Mr. Mathis shows daily in the classroom his love for history.

Drama Club

The Drama Club tries to enhance the cultural side of Lambuth through plays and musicals. This year, these members helped to put on the plays by building sets and designing costumes. Because of the recent renovations that have been done on the theatre, these thespians can put on the best plays that Lambuth has ever seen.

Junior Robin Cherry and Senior Jamil Al-Chokhachi eagerly await the opening of the fall play "Dark of the Moon."

Sociology Club

The Sociology Club is made up of sociology majors. They strive to learn about what drives the human condition and how this contributes to the world around them. Through the leadership of Dr. Paul Jacobson, these students seek to learn about the social aspects of mankind through daily life.

Senior Stephanie Jones (right) spends time with her family and friends at a party. As a member of the Sociology Club, Stephanie learns more about relationships with different types of people.

The Members of the Sociology Club are as follows, Row 1: Stephanie Archer, Judith Polk. Row 2: Katina Douglas, Mona Williams, Stephanie Jones.

Visual Art / Human Ecology Clubs

American Society of Interior Design

The Human Ecology Club is a student organization based on principles of the American Home Economics Association. The club primarily consists of human ecology majors, but those with an interest in this field may also join this club. The goals of this club are to promote a professional approach to strengthening today's families. Dr. Larry Ray and Mrs. June Creasy are the advisors of this club.

The American Chemical Society is an organization established for students entering chemistry-related fields. Under the direction of president Chris Finch and faculty advisors Dr. George Edwards and Dr. John Pechonick, the ACS gives students the opportunity to join with other students to discuss new information, methods, and advancements in the field of chemistry. The society also invites professionals to discuss options and occupations open to graduates.

Junior Erinn McCown works on her experiment for her organic chemistry class. Students in the ACS receive assistance with their assignments for being a part of the organization.

STEA

The STEA, Student Tennessee Education Association, was re-established on the Lambuth campus this year. The STEA is for students studying in the field of education. These members gather to discuss current teaching issues and problems facing education. For a service project, the students helped Tennessee CARE. They also had a guest speaker from Russia attend a meeting to talk about Russian education. The executive officers attended the state STEA Leadership Conference in Nashville.

Executive Officers, Row 1: Mary Burton (president), Connie Colbert, Tami Montgomery. Row 2: Dr. Beth Coe (faculty advisor), Stacy Sewell, Vicky Burleson, Kristen Underwood, and Tanya Hughes.

Peer Advisors

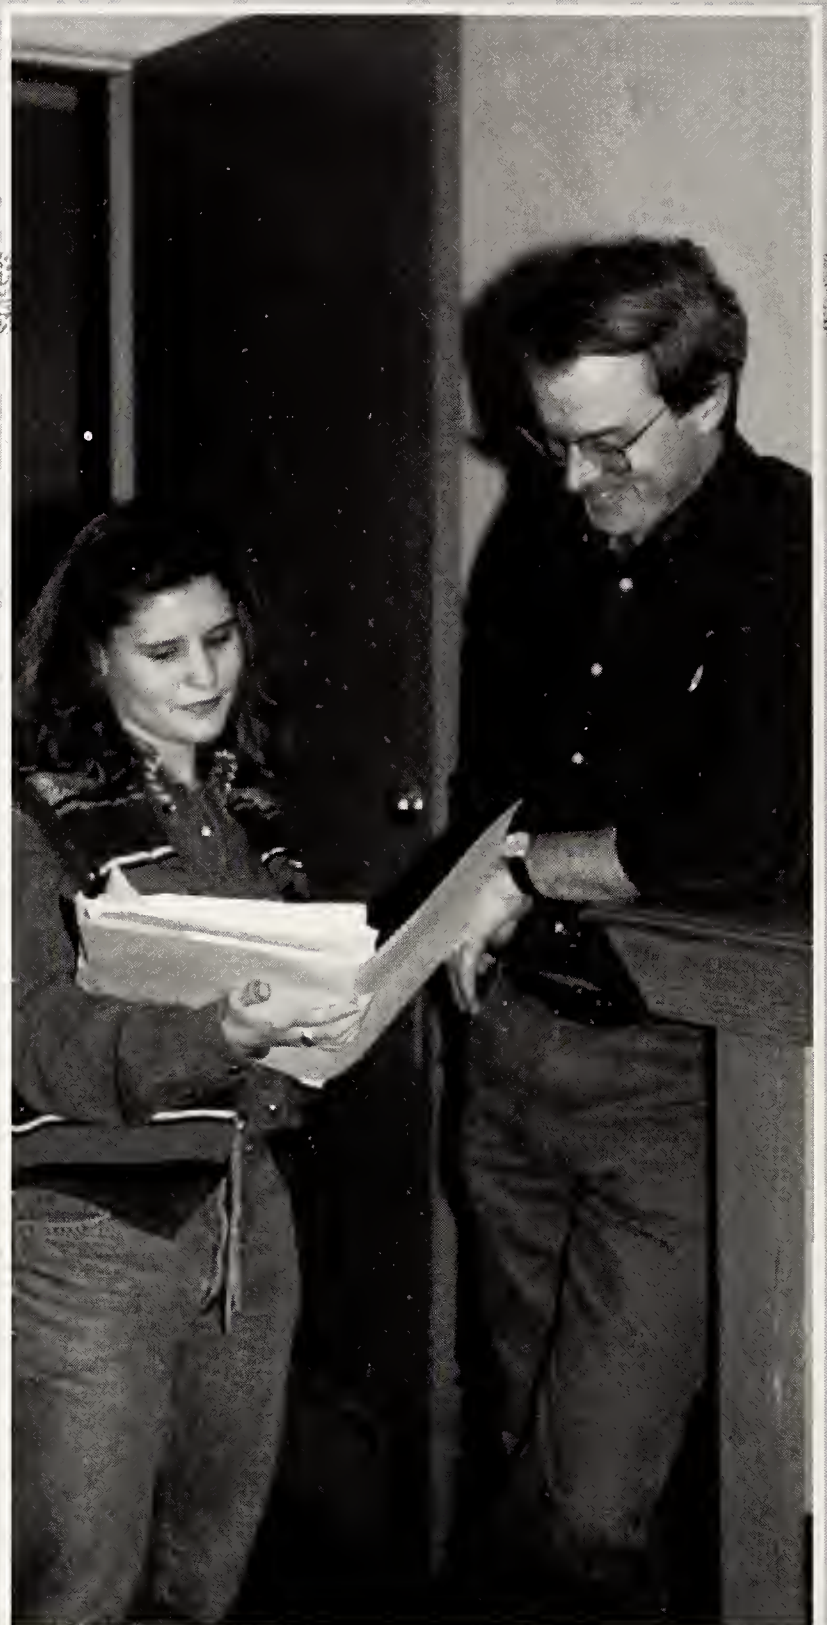

Because adjusting to college is a different experience, Lambuth University has developed a program designed to make this change easier for freshmen. Each freshman is assigned to an advising group which meets once a week during the first semester. Lambuth then selects upperclassmen to be Peer Advisors for each class. The peer advisors help during freshman orientation, registration and during the weekly freshman seminars to answer any questions that the freshmen may have. Because some freshmen may have a problem that they might feel uncomfortable talking about with their advisor, the peer advisor may sometimes serve as a go-between between the freshman and advisor. Peer advising is a necessary part of Lambuth University in assuring that these students make a successful transition from high school to college.

Dorm Councils

The Dorm Leaders consist of the resident advisors and appointed members of the dorm council. Their goal is to make dorm life as comfortable and as fun as possible. This year the dorm leaders of Carney Johnston Hall decorated the dorm for Homecoming week and gave a dorm-wide party before exam week. Most importantly, though, the dorm leaders help to provide positive communications between the students, dorm advisors, and administration.

At a Glance

One of the best advantages to Lambuth's student life is the diversity of activities available to everyone. Whether your interests lie in the arts, theatrics, or music Lambuth has something to offer each of its students. Lambuth soon becomes a home away from home by offering so many different opportunities to become involved. At just a glance, you can clearly see the unending ways that LU students enjoy their extra time in school.

Under the guidance of Head Coach Randy Harrell, this multi-talented team is motivated for their 1995 season. Last year the team finished as runners-up in the TCAC. Marty Finder received "All TCAC 2nd Base," and John Griffin received not only "All TCAC 1st Base" but also "All District 24 1st Base" and "Player of the Year TCAC." The team is looking good for their upcoming season. Coach Harrell says, "If your players perform up to their capabilities, the Lambuth University Baseball Team will be recognized throughout the country as one of the premiere programs."

The anticipation is rising as the Lambuth Eagles enter the 1994-1995 basketball season. Last year the team had its best record in fourteen years, finishing 22-12 overall and 10-6 in the TCAC. They went all the way to the semi-finals of the District 24 play-offs. This year's squad has big shoes to fill, but they are up to the challenge. Head coach Tommy Russell says that this is, potentially, the deepest and most talented Lambuth team in many years. Sean Rogers has already broken the Lambuth career record for assists. And Tony Brown was named to the All-TCAC team. These players and the many other talented Lambuth Eagles hope to lead the 1994-1995 team straight into a winning season.

The 1994-1995 basketball season is looking very good for the Lady Eagles. The Eagles begin their new season under the direction of their new head coach, Lori Davis. The team ended their last season with a record of 15-14 overall and placed fourth in the TCAC with a 9-7 record. Even though the team is predominantly young they have a lot of potential. Returning point guard Danya Howse, center Jennifer Burnette, and forward Ternika Boga, all bring expertise and experience to the court. Coach Davis says, "We go into this season looking for someone to step up and take over the leadership role that has been left vacant." So keep an eye on the Lady Eagles and watch the surprises they have in store.

The 1994 Basketball cheerleaders are looking forward to an exciting basketball season. In the fall, ten ladies were chosen to maintain the spirit at the basketball games. These ladies, as well as Zeus, are the ones who help motivate the team also. They work very hard to make sure that all of the Lambuth fans join together to make the season the best it can be. Along with all the excitement of a new school year came a brand new sport at Lambuth, Cross-Country racing. Head coach Mike Wolf brought in the Cross-Country team, and they have been doing a superb job of representing the school. The team has competed against runners ranked sixth and seventh nationally. Both Becky Weisbrodt and Zach Cherry finished with personal best times. When asked about the sport Coach Wolf said, "Cross-Country is not just a running event. It takes power of the mind to overcome the pain, endurance so that you do not quit, and the will to become a champion." The Lambuth University Cross-Country team definitely got started on the right foot.

The Lambuth University football team has never had a season like this one! The Lambuth Eagles soared right into the number four position in the nation. The team surpassed any expectations and left the country amazed. Coach Vic Wallace not only led the team to victory but he made some records of his own. Coach Wallace was named the thirteenth winningest coach in the nation. He was also named Mid-South Coach of the Year. Two Eagles had outstanding accomplishments this season by breaking some amazing records. Cory Hill broke the record of most passing yards in a season with 2,501, and he also broke the record of most passing touchdowns in a season with 20. Jo Jo Jones has made headlines all over the country with his sensational season. Jo Jo broke countless records including Walter Payton's record of Most Career Rushing Touchdowns with 69. He also broke the record for the most rushing yards gained in a season with 5,724. Two other outstanding records that Jo Jo broke are Most Rushing Yards Gained in a Season, with 2,398 and he broke Most Rushing Yards in a Single Championship, with 311 yards against Evangel. And last but not least, Jo Jo was also named as College Sports Magazine's NAIA Player of the Year. The entire Lambuth Football team had an outstanding season and should be commended for their successful season. They are a perfect example of how hard work pays off.

Not only do the cheerleaders maintain spirit at home but they also have traveled with the team on their road trips. Zeus (Rod Griggs), the infamous Lambuth mascot, also did some traveling of his own. Rod competed at the UCA camp on the campus of UT Knoxville. He performed against forty other mascots. Some of the mascots were from Division I schools such as Clemson and Alabama. The Lady Eagle soccer team had a very challenging season. This year the ladies not only had a new head coach, Coach Ben Sohrabi, but they also had to travel to all of their games. Under Sohrabi, the team placed second in the Rhodes Invitational in which Ali Zoll and Tracey Wilson were named All-Tournament Players. In the Lindsey Wilson Invitational, Ali Zoll and Patty Schmerbeck made All Tournament. The team also went on to set a team record of eight goals in a game. Soccer is quickly becoming a favorite American sport. Along with this national awakening is an increased interest in the Lambuth soccer team. This group of excelling athletes, under the guidance of Coach Mark Johnson, has been doing an excellent job of representing Lambuth University. They have won the TCAC Championship the past two years. This year Randy, Bart, Clint, and Tim made the TCAC All-Conference First Team. Art, Miles, and Craig made the Second Team. Bart was the Conference Player of the Year. Coach Johnson said, "The key to a successful program is for the athletes to be disciplined, organized, and to have pride in their work." Apparently, Johnson and his team are on the right track — leading the Lambuth soccer team into first place.

Continuing the Legacy:

Administration, Faculty, & Staff

University President, Dr. Thomas F. Boyd

Q: How do you see your office continuing the legacy of Lambuth and carrying it into a new era?

A: Seven summers ago Lambuth University and I began an odyssey together. In that time, we have seen the university double in size, and we have discovered our namesake and what he did for his time and his church and for his society. It has been rewarding to welcome Bishop Lambuth home and begin to write the history of his time in words that relate to our time.

An international dimension has become a central component for the Lambuth experience. Our students are traveling throughout the world as they seek to wrap their minds around the increasing complexity and opportunity afforded by this century and the next. Students at Lambuth can now spend time at a different institution immersed in the culture and language of that institution and its society. And, Lambuth University is coming in for its fair share of recognition; students now come in increasing numbers to our university from not only the Mid-South, but throughout the nation and around the world.

Accountability comes to mind as I think about the new Lambuth because we, as educators and professionals, can articulate what is important and why it is important. Last year we spent the year in discussion with students and faculty talking about the new challenges for our new age. One of the most encouraging elements to come out of the discussion was the sense on the part of many of our faculty for their need to understand technology and all of its varied forms, and, more importantly, how those new technologies, real and emerging, would relate to their particular disciplines. To that end, we have taken on the challenge to begin to educate ourselves. We will be spending the next five to six years working with our faculty through various in-service training programs and seminars and perhaps, most importantly, one on one, as we seek to educate ourselves about how the technologies relate to the world of ideas.

We are, of course, looking at new programming, and the Master's Program remains a constant area of investigation for us. Traditional programming does hold with tradition answers, and that is reassuring; however, new answers are needed. In the last few years, Lambuth has been offering external educational programs; that is, we are taking our educational programs to our various constituent groups. We have offered seminars and workshops around West Tennessee and even around the world. We have tried to project Lambuth as a functional educational component for the region.

To accomplish all we need to we will need people — people with new ideas, people who are willing to put on new glasses and see themselves and their discipline and their university in new and creative ways. All constituent groups will have to join together to be able to accomplish what we see as a vision and goal for our university. This university will have to seek to employ people who understand the mission and the scope of Lambuth.

What will Lambuth look like in the year 2005? I have no crystal ball, but I think we have the ability to focus with intentionality on what kind of Lambuth we want to see. Our world is larger, more complicated, more infuriating, and more confused — what a wonderful time to be alive and be an educator! And yes, I still believe our task is simply stated by a man in the 3rd Century B.C. named Aristotle who said, "Those concerned with the fate of countries and empires must first be concerned with the education of its youth." Aristotle's challenge remains Lambuth's opportunity.

Board of Trustees

Lambuth University Board of Trustees

The Board of Trustees are the owners and the governing body of the University. Nominated by a joint committee of the Board of Trustees and the Annual Conference of Higher Education and Campus Ministry, the Boards' twenty-eight elective trustees, eight ex-officio members, and up to four elective special trustees fulfill diverse responsibilities. Essentially, the Board manages the property and the business of the University. For example, Board members authorize financial actions, such as the establishment of a budget, and changes in tuition and fees. They authorize capital improvements, such as the construction or renovation of buildings, and the purchase of land and equipment; the trustees review and approve all educational programs at the University, approve honorary degrees upon the recommendation of the faculty, and appoint the University's president.

Vice President and Academic Dean, Dr. J. Dalton Eddleman

What qualities and qualifications do you look for when searching for a new faculty member?

A: Appropriate academic credentials, such as advanced degrees, teaching experience, and evidence of scholarship, are basic qualifications. The essential quality is a compulsion to help students learn. In the future Lambuth will need faculty who are driven to see that our curricula and our instruction are second to none in the nation.

Q: What new programs do you foresee in Lambuth's future?

A: This year Lambuth began an athletic training career path program, and next year a criminal justice concentration will be implemented in the sociology department. Departments are currently analyzing their goals and objectives, and out of this process may appear the need for other academic enhancements or additions.

Q: How do you see your office continuing the legacy of Lambuth and carrying it into a new era?

A: Lambuth has a long heritage of academic excellence, but in the next century we must push the envelope into the true superiority. In the coming decades just being a "good" school will not be enough even to insure survival. Therefore, the academic dean's office must support all departments in their drive to be better than they have ever been, even when they were at their best.

Vice President for Student Life, Mrs. Dianne L. Schnell

Q: What adjustments did you have to make when you went from being a full-time professor to a university vice president?

A: Life was much more flexible as a professor — the increased hours and demands have been difficult for me as the mother of two little ones, but our family has pulled together, and it's great to see the increased responsibility my husband has assumed with the care of our children.

Other changes include the amount of time I spend in solitary activities vs. the time I spend with others. Teaching requires reading, preparing lectures, and grading papers which I still do with the teaching of one class a semester, but now I spend a lot more time with students, staff, and administration which I am enjoying immensely. I cannot express the pleasure I receive from being around students outside of the classroom setting.

Q: What changes would you like to see in the student life program at Lambuth?

A: One of my biggest goals is to enhance the leadership opportunities our students already have by providing a leadership development program. There are many students who fear leadership roles and will not pursue them because they are unsure of their knowledge and abilities. There are other students who want leadership roles but need to fine-tune their skills. By providing leadership classes and engaging in team building activities I think that we can send a student out into the world with skills and abilities that cannot be surpassed.

Q: How do you see your office continuing the legacy of Lambuth and carrying in into a new era?

A: As Lambuth prepares itself to enter the 21st Century so must we prepare our students to enter the global environment that awaits them. Part of that preparation begins with the student life staff. Through professional development activities we can upgrade our skills so that we in turn can teach those around us. I feel strongly that our office operates with a team approach which we are continuing to develop. This approach, along with leadership training, will continue to work towards our mission of graduating a student who is a responsible and informed world citizen.

Vice President for Business Affairs, Mr. William B. Hill

Q: What responsibilities does the business office have?

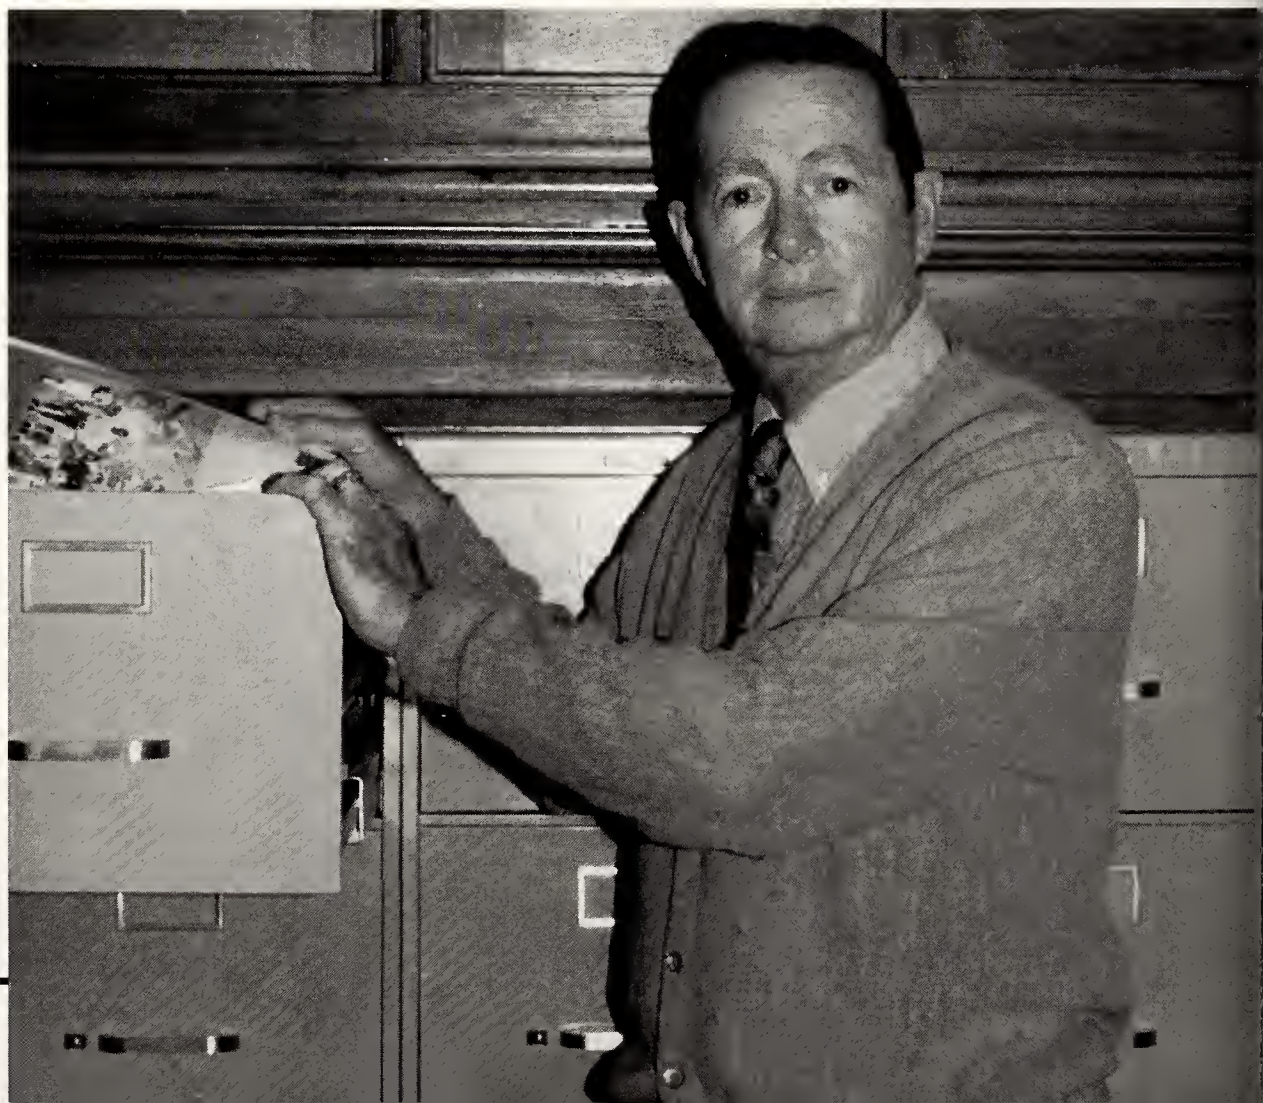

A: University and college business offices play a key role in assuring that high standards of ethical practice attend to the custody and the use of institutional resources. Its policies and objectives must constructively support and contribute to the ongoing and long-range planning for the institution and its primary purpose of being of service to its students and personnel.

Q: Given the increasingly sophisticated technology of the workplace, what role will computer technology come to play in the routine operation of the business office?

A: In fulfilling its purposes, business offices of educational institutions, including Lambuth, have been among the first to incorporate the increasingly sophisticated technology required of the workplace. These technological breakthroughs allow the business office to more effectively serve the needs of the Lambuth community, while providing the time needed to deal with people as individuals.

Q: How do you see your office continuing the legacy of Lambuth and carrying in into a new era?

A: As to the future, the business office will strive to meet the everchanging needs of the university, while assisting to make Lambuth University a benchmark institution for the 21st Century. Your business office continually plans to be one of the front runners among institutional leaders in the service to its students, its personnel, and most of all, its purpose, education.

Vice President for Church Relations, Dr. Joseph R. Thornton, III

Q: How do the roles of Vice President of Church Relations and Chaplain coincide?

A: The United Methodist Church is known as a "connectional church," meaning that United Methodist Churches are related to each other providing for a ministry of cooperation and mutuality. Lambuth University is an institution of the United Methodist Church whose identity places it in this connectional relationship.

The Chaplain of Lambuth is appointed by the church as well as being an employee of the University. Therefore, the Chaplain's office has a dual role, one as spiritual leader on campus and the other as the voice for this connectional relationship, particularly in the Memphis Conference where Lambuth serves this region as the church's school of higher education.

The Chaplain's role is very much like that of the pastor of any church, seeing that God's word and presence play a role in the overall life-development of those in the community of Lambuth. God's work and presence are manifested through worship and service and are spelled out as cornerstones in the mission statement of Lambuth University. Also, as the pastor of the Lambuth Chapel, The Chaplain has an intricate involvement in the connectional operation of the church as a whole. As Vice-President for Church Relations, the Chaplain works with the President's office for outreach and church relations; works with the office of Institutional Development for funding to the University; and works with the Academic Dean's office for student recruitment and for developing satellite courses off campus in local churches throughout the Conference. Finally, and perhaps most importantly, as Vice President for Church Relations, I also serve as the Director for the Jane Hyde Scott Center for Christian Studies at Lambuth. The Center is an arm of the University designed to help churches with their spiritual, missional, and educational needs.

The Jane Hyde Scott Center, Founded in 1991, represents the best example of how Campus Chaplain and officer for church relations coincide. Religious life at Lambuth is not a department among other departments. It has a macrocosmic vision and must be seen in this wider perspective just as United Methodism must be understood fundamentally as a connectional church.

Q: How do you see your office continuing the legacy of Lambuth and carrying it into a new era?

A: The legacy of Lambuth is best symbolized in the name of the University's namesake, Bishop Walter Russell Lambuth. Educator, theologian — physician, medical missionary, explorer and founder of world-wide institutions, Bishop Lambuth represented the breadth of visions Lambuth holds today as well as being an inspiration for Lambuth's future.

Vice President for University Development, Mr. Stanley R. McAnally

Q: When you go into the community in search of donations, what is the one thing you tell people the most about Lambuth? Why?

A: I talk with potential contributors about a number of important issues regarding Lambuth University: the continuing high-quality Christian education students receive, the high quality of the student body, the consistent increased enrollments over the past four years when so many other colleges and universities across the country were suffering declining enrollments, primarily due to the pool of 17-18 year old high school graduates. I also talk about the percentage of Lambuth students who receive some type of financial aid, and the importance of scholarships and loans that may permit some students to attend Lambuth who could not do so otherwise.

I talk about these kinds of issues because a donor wants the feeling that he or she is contributing to something positive and worthwhile and that the contribution will help make a difference.

Q: What are some of the big differences in raising money for a large school such as the University of Tennessee, Knoxville, and a small school like Lambuth?

A: Probably one of the major differences in raising money for a large university like the University of Tennessee, Knoxville, and a small university or college like Lambuth is the strength of the commitment of the alumni. At a large university, a student does not really get to know the faculty and administration very well, nor other students outside specific common classrooms and fraternities and sororities. Therefore, the commitment to the large university is not based on the same kind of feeling of belonging that exists in a small university like Lambuth, where most students know each other. Lambuth students know and interact with the faculty and administration and have a greater strength of positive feeling for the school.

Q: How do you see your office continuing the legacy of Lambuth and carrying it into a new era?

A: This office will try new ideas and techniques to produce more resources for Lambuth and, thereby, continue the legacy of a first-rate Christian education for every student who wants to be a part of the Lambuth tradition.

Q: How do you see your school continuing the legacy of Lambuth and carrying it into a new era?

A: The School of Arts and Communications' most immediate goal is to once again have the Arts represented in the core curriculum of Lambuth. What better way is there to help our students reach an understanding of the cultural heritage of people throughout the world and to understand our heritage and how it relates to the world today than through the exposure to the Arts in our curriculum.

Q: How do you see your school continuing the legacy of Lambuth and carrying it into a new era?

A: Lambuth University is a traditional liberal arts University. The School of Business and Professional Studies is made up of the areas Business, including Computer Information systems, Psychology, Sociology, History, and Political Science. As we progress towards the end of the 20th century and enter the 21st century, we will continue a student-oriented approach to educating our students. The world in which we live is becoming more and more complex and interactive, not only between individuals, but also between the many countries which make up our world. Our School is dedicated to helping students become active, understanding, and helpful parts of the worlds in which we live.

Q: How do you see your school continuing the legacy of Lambuth and carrying it into a new era?

A: With the advent of the era of technology, all four schools of the university are constantly being challenged to assist students in making the necessary adjustments to the demands of a new technological age. The School of Humanities prides itself in the opportunities it affords students who are striving to make such an adjustment and at the same time to support the university's long-time commitment to "academic excellence."

The Department of Religion and Philosophy serves the past and future of Lambuth by offering a serious treatment of religion, philosophy, and the liberal arts. It strives to remain on the frontier of the new discoveries and to sustain a fruitful dialogue with the larger universe of knowledge.

Since a number of students now entering Lambuth are somewhat deficient in a knowledge of basic writing skills, the English Department has taken vital steps to address this writing deficiency in hopes of maintaining academic excellence. To meet the needs of these students, a communications lab has been established to supplement the standard freshman English composition course by providing a more personalized approach to mastering basic writing skills. In addition, a new course in literature for sophomores has been added to compensate for the reduction of the literature component in the freshman composition course. The English Department has redesigned the course "Print Media Workshop" to cover a broad spectrum of students interested in the technology of desk-top publication. Such a course enables students to explore new approaches to communicating through images and text. Then, too, the English Department continues to reach out to the international students with special courses in English as a second language.

As we prepare our students for the 21st Century, the School of Humanities is keenly aware that a thorough knowledge of other cultures and the ability to communicate effectively in one or more foreign languages are vital facets of their education. Therefore, the School of Humanities has played a major role in coordinating Lambuth's study abroad program, centered at Westminster College of Oxford University in England. Such overseas academic programs have been, and will continue to be, outstanding forums for promoting intellectual growth and cross-cultural awareness among the faculty and students at Lambuth.

Indeed, the School of Humanities is exerting every effort to meet the needs of the students who are on the threshold of the twenty-first century.

The librarians will do away with the card catalog as soon as the cards are entered into the database.

Colophon

Volume 67 of the Lambuth Lantern was printed by Taylor Publishing Company of Dallas, Texas. With the assistance of Dolores Landin, a design consultant for Taylor, editor Jennifer Rawls and advisors Dr. Bob Hazlewood and Mr. Mark Walls articulated the theme, "Continuing the Legacy: A New Era," and designed the cover in Mission Grain using a blind emboss and gold foil stamp. The Lantern had a press of 800 copies.

The body copy for the opening section was set in Chancery type. All other body copy was set in 10 point Garamond with all captions set in 8 point Garamond. The headline type varied from section to section.

Most of the color and black & white photographs were taken by staff photographers Suzann Coleman, Brandi Ellis, Lori Foust, and Rob Lynn and were developed by Wolf Photo of Jackson. Glen Weatherley took most of the sports shots as well as the student portraits and completed the processing and printing. Additional photographs were provided by Mrs. Leann Pruitt.

The Lantern staff would like to thank everyone — students, faculty, and others — who contributed pictures and information during the year, especially Delores Landin and Greg Williams of Taylor Publishing Company and the Lambuth University Office of Communication under the direction of Mrs. Leann Pruitt.

A race of people is like an individual man; until it uses its own talents, takes pride in its own history, expresses its own culture, and affirms its own self-hood, it can never fulfill itself.

Dedication

Dr. Kenneth Yancey

In Memory of His Outstanding Service to Lambuth
1966-1994

"I suppose one of the things I will always remember about Ken Yancey is his smile and his words of encouragement to me personally. He believed in the university and supported its programs . . . [And] that hat of his — I loved it, and I always wished that I could get away with wearing a hat like that. That hat and that smile will be missed." — Dr. Thomas F. Boyd

"[He was] a unique and caring individual who had much to offer Lambuth and its students. I will miss him." — Charanjit Singh

"We are an academic community, and he that has fallen from our number was a man of science, a man of learning, an academic man. And we are greatly diminished by his falling." — Dr. J. Dalton Eddleman

"In the hunt for truth there are times of solitude and reflection, and times of companionship and conversation. [Ken's] colleagues in Hyde, hunters after that same truth, shared the fellowship of that pursuit with him and will sorely miss his presence in their version of the hunt." — Dr. Ronnie Barnes

"Ken was deeply committed to the belief that all of life is a unified system — a belief that led him into an interest in the eastern religions and to an effort to see the unity between religion and science." — Dr. Gene Davenport

"He was my colleague but, most of all, my friend." — Mrs. Sandra Givens

"We shall miss Ken Yancey, but we rejoice with him in his new found home, where all the mysteries of math and science will be revealed to him, and where neither moth nor rust will corrupt, where death shall be no more, and where nothing can break through and steal him away from his loved ones ever again." — Dr. Brady Whitehead
